The arm-tefillin, or shel yad, is worn on the upper arm, while the head-tefillin, or shel rosh, is placed above the forehead. They serve as a "sign" and "remembrance" that God brought the children of Israel out of Egypt. According to Jewish Law, they should be worn during weekday morning prayer services.

Many Spirits

- Luke 8:26 They sailed to the region of the Gerasenes, which is across the lake from Galilee.
- 27 When Jesus stepped ashore, he was met by a demon-possessed man from the town. For a long time this man had not worn clothes or lived in a house, but had lived in the tombs.
- 28 When he saw Jesus, he cried out and fell at his feet, shouting at the top of his voice, "What do you want with me, Jesus, Son of the Most High God? I beg you, don't torture me!"
- 29 For Jesus had commanded the evil spirit to come out of the man. Many times it had seized him, and though he was chained hand and foot and kept under guard, he had broken his chains and had been driven by the demon into solitary places.
- 30 Jesus asked him, "What is your name?" "Legion," he replied, because many demons had gone into him.
- 31 And they begged him repeatedly not to order them to go into the Abyss.

The star was given the key to the shaft of the Abyss. 2 When he opened the Abyss, smoke rose from it like the smoke from a gigantic furnace. The sun and sky were darkened by the smoke from the Abyss. 3 And out of the smoke locusts came down upon the earth and were given power like that of scorpions of the earth. 4 They were told not to harm the grass of the earth or any plant or tree, but only those people who did not have the seal of God on their foreheads. 5 They were not given power to kill them, but only to torture them for five months. And the agony they suffered was like that of the sting of a scorpion when it strikes a man. 6 During those days men will seek death, but will not find it; they will long to die, but death will elude them.. .....11 They had as king over them the angel of the Abyss, whose name in Hebrew is Abaddon, and in Greek, Apollyon.

Possession: what's stopping it ?

- 2 Thessalonians 1 Concerning the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ and our being gathered to him, we ask you, brothers, 2 not to become easily unsettled or alarmed by some prophecy, report or letter supposed to have come from us, saying that the day of the Lord has already come.
- 3 Don't let anyone deceive you in any way, for that day will not come until the rebellion occurs and the man of lawlessness is revealed, the man doomed to destruction. 4 He will oppose and will exalt himself over everything that is called God or is worshiped, so that he sets himself up in God's temple, proclaiming himself to be God. 5 Don't you remember that when I was with you I used to tell you these things? 6 And now you know what is holding him back, so that he may be revealed at the proper time. 7 For the secret power of lawlessness is already at work; but the one who now holds it back will continue to do so till he is taken out of the way.

The return of the Nephilim

- Daniel 2:42 And as the toes of the feet were part of iron, and part of clay, so the kingdom shall be partly strong, and partly broken.

BOOK TWO The Organization of the Legion

DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE LEGIONS AND AUXILIARIES

The Macedonians, the Greeks and the Dardanians formed their troops into phalanxes of eight thousand men each. The Gauls, Celtiberians and many other barbarous nations divided their armies into bodies of six thousand each. The Romans have their legions usually six thousand strong, sometimes more.

ORGANIZATION of the ROMAN LEGIONS

Under Nero there were 28 legions. The number gradually increased over the years. Each Legion had a name, a number, and its own badge. In addition, there were the Praetorian cohorts, originally the emperor's personal bodyguard, but expanded into an elite corps. By the late 3rd Century, the whole emphasis of the army was moving away from old concepts. Cavalry became increasingly important.

In the early Republic, the legion of the Roman army was a self-contained formation equivalent to a complete army in itself. The smallest unit was the contubernium, a tent party of Ten men sharing a packhorse. Ten such groups formed a company, or centuria, commanded by a centurian. This was 100 men, Six such companies, grouped in three pairs, formed a cohort. Ten cohorts made up a legion.

TYPE	NUMBER
Contubernium	10
Company	100
Cohort	600
Legion	6000

A Roman Legion

“The number of his name”

- 6000 men
- Divided into 10 cohorts of 600 men each
- Each Cohort divided into 6 “Centuries” of 100 men
- Each Century led by a Centurion
- “My Name is Legion, 6 6 6 !” The mark of possession !

Signiferi

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

The signiferi of the Roman legions were the ranks entrusted with various tasks to do with standard-bearing. Early in the Roman Republic the single rank signifer performed all these tasks but later in the Empire the tasks became more specialist with different ranks created for specific tasks, including the aquilifer (eagle standard bearer for the whole legion), imaginifer (bearer of the portrait of the god-like Emperor) and the draconarius (bearer of a cavalry standard).

The “Aquilifer”

- The Century, Cohort and Auxiliary units of a Roman Legion, carried several different styles of Vexilla (banners), Signums and other types of "Standards" to identify themselves. These various standards were considered as sacred objects representing the spirit and soul of the unit. They were decorated with garlands and sacred oils on special days and occasions. The honor of carrying these "Standards" was entrusted to veteran legionaries who generally were serving their extended enlistments after 20 years of service. Consul Marius established the Eagle or Aquila as the sole symbol of a Roman Legion as part of his "Reforms" of the Roman Military in 106 BC. For a Legion, the "Aquilifer" bore the Aquila-Eagle, while the "Imaginifer" carried the Imago of the Emperor.

- Each legion had a standard that symbolized it, an eagle, which was a pole with the figure of an eagle at the top, made of gold. In addition a legion carried standards holding an image of the emperor, special flags, and a legion symbol. These standards were objects of worship in the official religion of Rome. For this reason, when legionary standards were introduced into Jerusalem under Pontius Pilate a riot ensued and Pilate was forced to remove them. According to the Roman historian Suetonius, when Cestius Gallus and the Twelfth Legion was defeated the Judaeans captured their eagle, an act of utter humiliation for any legion.

- Mounted below the phalerae or within the phalerae group, could be a crescent, possibly relating to Syria or the god Mithras (a favorite deity of legionary soldiers); a Capricorn emblem (Leg XIII below) or zodiac image indicating the "birth sign" of the Legion during the year or other effigy relating to the origin of the unit.

Imaginifer

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

A model of what an imaginifer may have looked like

- Imaginifer was a type of signifer during the Roman Empire, who carried the imago - the image - of the emperor. The imaginifer was added to the ranks of the cohorts when the Imperial Cult was first established during the reign of Augustus. The imago was a metal three dimensional portrait made from beaten metal. It was carried only in the leading cohort.

The Dragon !

- The draconarius was a type of signiferi who bore of a cavalry standard known as a draco in the Roman army. It consisted of a gaping bronze dragon head with a fabric body similar in shape to a short snake behind it. Wind flowed through the bronze dragon mouth and billowed out the cloth tail much like a modern wind-sock. It is thought that some form of whistle was mounted in the dragon's neck in order to make a terrifying noise when galloping.

- The Vexillarius of Cohors III Praetoria in Italy in formation with the legionaries of the unit. Note that the Vexillarius is wearing maile (hamata) body armor and a very impressive lion pelt over his helmet. A Lion (leo) pelt is thought to have been generally worn only by the Aqualifer, Signifer or Vexillarius of a legion/legio unit.

Stolen emblems ?

- Revelation 4:6 And before the throne there was a sea of glass like unto crystal: and in the midst of the throne, and round about the throne, were four beasts full of eyes before and behind.
- 7 And the first beast was like a lion, and the second beast like a calf, and the third beast had a face as a man, and the fourth beast was like a flying eagle.

In The End we Win!

- Daniel 7:9 ¶I beheld till the thrones were cast down, and the Ancient of days did sit, whose garment was white as snow, and the hair of his head like the pure wool: his throne was like the fiery flame, and his wheels as burning fire.
- 10 A fiery stream issued and came forth from before him: thousand thousands ministered unto him, and ten thousand times ten thousand stood before him: the judgment was set, and the books were opened.
- 11 I beheld then because of the voice of the great words which the horn spake: I beheld even till the beast was slain, and his body destroyed, and given to the burning flame.
